NEW COLLEGE, SARASOTA, FLORIDA
FURMAN C. ARTHUR — INFORMATION

FOR RELEASE: Sunday, May 31, 1964

Sarasota, Fla.--Sumner B. Emerson, a partner of Morgan Stanley & Company, today was elected a member of the New College board of trustees.

New College is a private, co-educational college of the liberal arts and sciences accepting its charter class of students in September.

Dartmouth alumnus Emerson who from 1941-60 was an active partner in the New York investment banking firm and is now a limited partner, makes his winter home in Sarasota.

His appointment was announced by Louis H. LaMotte, New College trustee chairman and IBM director.

Emerson also is a trustee of Rutgers University and is a former overseer of the Amos Tuck School at Dartmouth. He is a native of New Hampshire and an honors graduate of Dartmouth.
