NEW COLLEGE, SARASOTA, FLORIDA
FURMAN C. ARTHUR — INFORMATION

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

New College Dean of Students Robert J. Norwine was in New York City to tape a radio program designed to aid high school students who are applying to college.

The program, entitled "Next Stop College," will be aired over New York radio station WABC about the middle of December.

Also appearing on the program with Norwine was Arnold L. Goren, Dean of Admissions of New York University.

Norwine, who is also Dean of Admissions at New College, answered questions such as "Does the size of a college have anything to do with the quality of a college?" He also commented on the unusual features New College has to offer students.

From his experience at New College, Norwine discussed the value of seminar discussions, independent study, and a year-round program. He also discussed the geographic distribution and the record of students at New College.
