PHILOSOPHICAL DISCUSSION TOMORROW

Some 26 local churches in Sarasota County, through Church Women United, sponsor a discussion of "Human Values and Advancing Technology" tomorrow (Friday) at 8 p.m. in Hamilton Center on the college's East Campus.

Speaking on this theme will be Dr. B. Gresham Riley and Dr. William H. Hamilton, both members of the New College faculty, the former a philosopher and the latter a professor of religion.

The program is part of a national May Fellowship Day observed by CWU.

STUDENTS DO TV SHOW

Political interest by students on college campuses has become one of the phenomena of the decade. College students, even though most do not vote, now are wooed assiduously by presidential candidates. Three New College students will discuss this change in campus activities on "Perspective," seen this Sunday morning at 9 a.m. over WFLA-TV, Channel 8. The three--student newspaper editor Lawrence Paulson, student government veterans Steve Hendricks and Jon Shaughnessy--will discuss politics on campus with program moderator Dr. Martin I. J. Griffin. They are expected also to comment on the recent nationwide campus poll of presidential candidates and to relate the New College results--heavily in favor of Eugene McCarthy--to national trends.

COLLEGE FILM BEING MADE

New College students, who have been studying cinematographic techniques for months under the direction of Jonathan Slott, now are organizing to create a film about the college. Working with free-lance photographer Otto Walters, who has volunteered to help them, the students have divided themselves into production units for script writing, filming and producing. Sarasotan George Duffee-Braun is serving as producer for the film. The group, which meets every Friday night for classes, hopes to complete the film by June 1.
